She is currently hosting her own show on Cliff Central called “The sound evolution”.

Miss Pru managed herself as an artist and worked hard to build a name for herself as a female house DJ. It was during that period that she received invites to showcase her skills at big events such as the Southern African Music Conference and Dance Ritual featuring Louise Vega and Josh Milan. She has traveled outside of the country, having attended the WMC, which takes place in Miami. Other countries include: Lesotho, Botswana, Namibia, The U.S as well as Swaziland.

Background

Born and bred in the Vaal triagle, Prudence Sebalo aka Miss Pru has always had a love for the performing arts. At school she had the opportunity to experiment with Drama and dance; it was DJ’ying that caught her attention. Miss Pru learnt how to DJ and spend time harnessing her skills in 2008 and 2009. After completing her studies at Fuse Academy she was invited back as a lecturer and has since taught more than 50 girls how to deejay on vinyl.

Music Activity

The great success led to Miss Pru signing a record and management deal with Ambitiouz Entertainment in 2015 leading to her debut release “Welele”. The single is a celebration of dance and music. Following the success of her first single, Miss Pru then surprised the country with a Hip-Hop single titled “Ameni”. The hit single features Ambitiouz Entertainment family of artists; Fifi Cooper, Emtee Da Hustler, Benchmarq, A Reece, Sjava and Saudi. The hit single has since achieved massive success and is one of 2016 most loved songs across all ages.

"I've always loved hip hop and at a point in my life I was an MC, as times changed I fell in love with vocal house music based on influences from the likes of Vinny da Vinci. While we were on the road doing radio tours with the A team from Ambitiouz Entertainment their passion for Hip-hop reignited mine and I remembered how much I love it. When I pitched the idea of doing a hip-hop track, everyone was excited and they pitched in." explains Miss Pru.

The Future

2016 is a year filled with musical discovery for Miss Pru as she is currently the only female DJ who mixes hip hop and house in her sets allowing fans a full musical experience.

Multiple facets to Miss Pru's talents proving that she is a force to be reckoned in 2016 as one of SA top female DJ's.
